

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

This morning we could see some light to patchy fog around the course just before sunrise, but it is likely to not last long into the morning. Once we get past the fog this morning it looks like we will FINALLY have a good day for golf! Some light showers are possible in the late morning to early afternoon, but we will have a fair amount of sunshine though the day today with highs in the 80s and winds starting out from the north and shifting to the east through the day at 4 - 8 mph. Tomorrow does not look as great as a cold front will be smashing into us in the morning and hanging on through the day as showers and storms are expected through the morning and possible through the afternoon. The models have us getting anywhere from half an inch to two and a half inches through the day tomorrow. Thursday is looking like a great day again as we do have a chance of a small passing shower through the day, but we will be mostly sunny with a high in the low 70s. Friday looks even better with nothing but sunshine throughout the day.
