

TUESDAY, JULY 11th, 2023 - 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Other than a couple spots of patchy fog around Pinehurst #6, it is mainly just dew out there. An absolutely gorgeous day for the players and spectators to enjoy with primarily sunny skies and light winds, leading to our quick warm up this morning and afternoon. Our moisture has finally subsided and will slowly drop over the course of the day spoiling us with refreshing conditions. Some fair weather clouds will begin to paint our perfect blue skies by the early to mid-afternoon as we look to stay dry. We return back to normal with the high temperature making its way back into the low 90s with our heat index in the mid 90s, so continue to hydrate properly. A couple isolated showers try to paint the radar later this evening with the off chance of even seeing one moving into Tuesday night. Weak high pressure still barely holds on across the area Wednesday as moisture values now begin to trend back up leading to a slight increase in cloud cover and better 20% chance of an isolated shower or storm. Let's stay the course and crown our champions in the wonderful weather we have in store!
