

SATURDAY, JULY 8, 2023 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Another cool, cloudy, breezy day. Morning visibility issues are unlikely, but if a thin fog were to develop, 7 to 8AM is the worst of it. Today should be the windiest of the past week. Starting out from the north/northwest, gusts will increase from around 15 mph to the mid 20s this afternoon. Out on the point, a gust to 28 - 30mph cannot be ruled out. The wind will do its best to disrupt our cloud cover this afternoon, with the best chance of partly cloudy skies emerging between 1 and 5 PM. Tonight, the cloud layer settles back in with a renewed chance of mist/short-lived fog. Sunday will essentially see a repeat of today's weather with a slight downgrade in wind speeds.
