

TUESDAY, JULY 4, 2023 – 5 PM WEATHER FORECAST

Clouds fill back in this evening, with a chance of returning mist early Wednesday morning. Temperatures remain steady in the mid to upper 50s, with ample cloud cover and an ocean breeze keeping the nights mild and the days cool. Wednesday should see a slight increase in wind speed from the southwest, but is otherwise a comparable day to today. The big story heading into this weekend continues to be the shift to stronger northwestern winds and a sunnier sky, especially Friday. Thursday acts as a transition day between southwest winds and northwestern winds, slowly increasing in strength as they turn. For Friday and beyond, gusty northwesterlies up to 25 mph will join forces with some afternoon sunshine.
