

SUNDAY, MAY 25, 2025 – PRELIMINARY WEATHER OUTLOOK

Gorgeous conditions in the short term will transition to potentially ugly conditions throughout Tuesday. The system we will be monitoring is expected to impact Erin Hills from late Tuesday through Thursday, with a focus on Wednesday morning for the epicenter of the event. Rainfall between 0.75 and 1.75" is currently forecast, with plenty of room for oscillation as the system settles on a path. Regardless, there will be impactful breezy winds, rainfall, and a chilled atmosphere for the middle of the week. Later on, warmth builds for Friday through Sunday, retaining the chances for thunderstorms especially on Friday. Strap in for the ride with Mother Nature!
