

TUESDAY, MAY 27, 2025 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

A dull weather day is forecast. Mostly cloudy skies will threaten a sprinkle or two throughout the afternoon, but nothing more. It isn't until after sundown that the chance for a shower escalates. Wednesday is on track to be a bit dreary, but compared to previous projections, we should escape with amounts well under 0.50" and more likely in the 0.10 - 0.25" range. Thursday hangs onto precipitation chances as we warm back up, and Friday threatens the strongest punch in the form of thunderstorms late in the day. Of note, Friday's wind speeds are going to be stiff ahead of the front, with gusts to 30 mph possible. Saturday and Sunday retain a good chance of staying dry, but the ever-changing forecast will require attention as we get closer.
