

FRIDAY, MAY 30, 2025 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Today's winds pick up out of the west/northwest, peaking after lunchtime. Gusts reach the upper 20s in the afternoon ahead of a potentially strong storm system. Multiple rounds of precipitation are possible throughout the day, with the strongest likelihood in the late afternoon/evening time. The 3 to 9 PM window should feature the majority of impacts. Thunderstorms may drop up to 1.50" of rain, but amounts should stay in the 0.25 to 0.75" window. A gorgeous weekend is "allowed", on the backside of the havoc.
