

MONDAY, JULY 14, 2025 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Another hot, mostly sunny day is expected. The heat index is projected to reach 100 degrees by 1 PM, and will remain between 100 and 105 degrees through 6 PM. Take heat precautions as necessary. The slight chance of an afternoon shower or thunderstorm does exist, mainly after 2 PM, but the threat is regionally low. Hot, muggy conditions persist for Tuesday. Unfortunately, the threat for thunderstorms rises rapidly on Tuesday afternoon. The daily threat of thunderstorms persists through the end of the week, with temperatures returning to average for this time of year. Wind speeds will be negligible as we remain entrenched in this pattern.
