

FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are in the region this morning. We will be dodging this activity through 8:30 AM, before attention turns to wildfire smoke. The rest of the afternoon is anticipated to be another hazy, warm day. Less of a breeze and increased humidity will make it feel nice and toasty. Winds will flit around with little intention this morning, before finally moving in from the west/northwest later today. Gusts will likely hover around 15 mph with very little strength to the wind. Saturday and Sunday both feature similar afternoons in the lower 90s, and a light wind pattern. The main pain point going forward will be the extent of smoke.
