

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER OUTLOOK

This morning we could have a layer of light fog over the course as we get here this morning and it could thicken up slightly just before sunrise. Once the fog lifts this morning our focus turns to the chances of showers and thunderstorms that will stick with us through the day today. These storms will be scattered and very hard to give an exact timing for at this point. Overnight it is possible to have another round of showers and storms giving us another soggy start as we come in on Monday. Finally I can deliver a little good news as Monday looks like it will be drier than the weekend. Tuesday looks to be fairly dry too with highs in the 80s in the afternoon. Wednesday may bring down the party again as our rain chances jump back up through the day. Thursday looks to dry off again with the rain chances dropping through the day.
