

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 4th, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Splendid weather is on the menu as I am anticipating another day with a 0% chance for cloud cover. Winds will be a little pushy out of the northeast this morning, but slow up a bit around lunchtime. Our temperatures will continue their climb back up near 90 degrees this afternoon with this trend persisting into the weekend. With our winds increasing overnight into Thursday, we will likely start the day off mild near 70 degrees. These northeasterly gusts each morning could reach into the upper teens, but should not be too impactful with the winds that are typical here at Troon CC. Otherwise, more sunshine through the Final Round with these afternoon high temperatures pushing into the mid 90s. A couple high clouds may flutter in from the south during the afternoon and evening with a mostly clear Thursday night. Some moisture near the surface will slip back in our area Friday into the weekend bringing along with it some extra clouds and the very slim opportunity for precipitation.
