

TUESDAY, AUGUST 15, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

August sunshine this morning will turn our temps around dramatically today after lows in the 50s at both courses early becomes warmer at lunchtime than we were all day yesterday as highs eventually max out in the mid 80s at Colorado Golf Club and near 90 degrees at Cherry Hills. There will be some fair weather clouds that form this afternoon over the mountains and try to head in our direction, but once again we are looking at another precip free day as any action on radar should stay well into the higher elevations. Southerly flow early this morning at CGC will die down at both locations with light and variable winds most of the morning, then this afternoon the wind should push in at about the same speed as yesterday from the northeast to southeast. Tonight will be another quiet night, then we'll heat up even more on Wednesday as showers and storms in the mountains try to get much closer to us by the afternoon hours. Look for temps to stay above 90 degrees the rest of the way.
