The United States Golf Association (USGA) today announced that the 2030 U.S. Senior Amateur Championship, originally slated to be contested at The Country Club of North Carolina in Pinehurst, N.C., has been relocated to Oklahoma City Golf & Country Club in Nichols Hills, Okla. The championship will still be conducted Aug. 24-29, 2030.

The Country Club of North Carolina requested to be released from its commitment in light of recently approved plans for a major renovation of its Cardinal Course in 2029. The club remains scheduled to host the 2037 U.S. Women's Amateur.

"The USGA extends its deepest gratitude to Oklahoma City Golf & Country Club for its willingness to host the 2030 U.S. Senior Amateur Championship," said Mark Hill, USGA managing director, Championships. "The club and its membership demonstrated their ability to conduct a world-class championship when they hosted the U.S. Women's Amateur Four-Ball in 2025, and we are excited to return in 2030."

Founded in 1911, Oklahoma City Golf & C.C. is the oldest country club in the Greater Oklahoma City region, and its golf course, which opened in 1929, was designed in collaboration between renowned architects Allister Mackenzie and Perry Maxwell.

The club hosted its second USGA championship in 2025 when Natalie Yen and Asia Young defeated Athena Singh and Keira Yun, 5 and 3, in the final match of the U.S. Women's Amateur Four-Ball. The club also hosted the 1953 U.S. Amateur, won by future U.S. Open champion Gene Littler.

"We are honored to welcome the 2030 U.S. Senior Amateur to our storied club," said Club President Kathryn Wilson Wheeler. "Our members and staff are focused on yet again providing an exceptional experience for our competitors and their families. We believe being called upon by the USGA speaks to the championship-level test of our golf course, the condition of our facilities and the hospitality of our hard-working staff. We can't wait to celebrate the world's best senior amateur players in 2030."

The U.S. Senior Amateur Championship is open to any golfer who is 55 or older with a Handicap Index® not exceeding 5.4. The championship consists of 36 holes of stroke play, after which the field is reduced to the low 64 scorers for match play. Mike Sposa won the 2026 championship at Baltimore Country Club in Lutherville, Md.
