

This is the 126th U.S. Open Championship and the 21st U.S. Open contested in New York. The Empire State has hosted 76 USGA championships overall.

THREE CENTURIES OF EXCELLENCE

Shinnecock Hills is the only course to have hosted the U.S. Open in three different centuries. The 2026 U.S. Open marks 130 years since Shinnecock first hosted the championship in 1896, when James Foulis defeated Horace Rawlins by three strokes, 152-155.

Other memorable U.S. Open moments at Shinnecock Hills:

1986 U.S. Open – Raymond Floyd defeats Lanny Wadkins and Chip Beck by two strokes (279-281). At age 43, Floyd became the oldest U.S. Open champion at the time, securing the fourth and final major championship of his Hall of Fame career.

1995 U.S. Open – Corey Pavin claims the trophy with a victory over Greg Norman and Tom Lehman. One of the shortest hitters on the PGA Tour, Pavin sealed his only major championship with a memorable 4-wood approach to the 72nd hole that remains one of the most iconic shots in U.S. Open history.

2004 U.S. Open – Retief Goosen defeats Phil Mickelson by two strokes to capture his second U.S. Open title within three years. Mickelson's runner-up finish was the third of a record six second-place showings in the championship.

2018 U.S. Open – Brooks Koepka successfully defends his title with a one-stroke victory over Tommy Fleetwood, becoming the first player since Curtis Strange in 1989 to win back-to-back U.S. Opens. Fleetwood nearly stole the championship with a final-round 63, matching the lowest round ever recorded in U.S. Open history.

Notable Amateur Players in the Field (World Amateur Golf Ranking® - 6/14):

Jackson Koivun (No. 1)

Koivun, who just completed his junior season at Auburn, will make his second consecutive U.S. Open start after receiving the 2025 McCormack Medal for the leading male amateur in the World Amateur Golf Ranking at the conclusion of the 2025 U.S. Amateur. Koivun was one of the standouts on the victorious 2025 USA Walker Cup Team at Cypress Point Club last September. He led Auburn to the NCAA title in 2026, is a three-time Southeastern Conference Player of the Year and was the recipient of the 2026 Haskins Award. He became the first competitor in the history of college golf to win all three national player of the year awards (Haskins, Hogan, Nicklaus) twice. He will turn professional following the U.S. Open and will make his professional debut at the John Deere Classic.

Preston Stout (No. 2)

Stout, a rising senior at Oklahoma State, earned his first U.S. Open start by capturing the individual title at the 2026 NCAA Division I Championship. He was a member of the victorious 2025 USA Walker Cup Team and is currently No. 2 in the World Amateur Golf Ranking. Stout posted four collegiate victories and won the Big 12 individual title for an unprecedented third time in a row in 2026. He also won the 2025 Northeast Amateur and reached the final 16 of the U.S. Amateur at The Olympic Club after earning medalist honors in stroke play.

Ethan Fang (No. 8)

Fang, a rising senior at Oklahoma State, captured The Amateur Championship at Royal St. George's in 2025 to earn a spot in his first U.S. Open. Just before the 2025 U.S. Amateur, he advanced to the 18-hole final of the Western Amateur. Those performances helped him earn a selection to the victorious 2025 USA Walker Cup Team. In 2024, Fang advanced to the quarterfinals of the U.S. Amateur.

Miles Russell (No. 11). He also was a member of the 2025 USA World Amateur Team and competed in the 2025 Palmer Cup.

Miles Russell (No. 11)

The 17-year-old left-hander from Jacksonville Beach, Fla., who was a member of the inaugural U.S. National Junior Team in 2024, survived a 3-for-2 playoff for the final spots at BallenIsles C.C. Russell had Charlie Woods on the bag for the qualifier. Both have verbally committed to attend Florida State in 2027. In 2024, Russell became the youngest player in Korn Ferry Tour history to make a cut, doing so at the LECOM Suncoast Classic in Florida. One of the most decorated amateurs in recent history, Russell was named the 2023 American Junior Golf Association's Rolex Boys Player of the Year, surpassing Tiger Woods as the youngest winner of the award. Russell, a lefty, was a quarterfinalist at the 2024 U.S. Junior Amateur and 2025 U.S. Amateur.

Arni Sveinsson (No. 20)

The Louisiana State rising junior will be the first Icelandic golfer to compete at the U.S. Open. He survived final qualifying after posting 9-under-par 135 at the Lakes Golf & Country Club, in Westerville, Ohio. Sveinsson will represent the International side in the upcoming Palmer Cup at Tralee in the Republic of Ireland after playing in the event last year in South Carolina.

Ryder Cowan (No. 24)

Cowan, a rising University of Oklahoma senior, qualified for his first U.S. Open by posting 6-under 138 at BallenIsles Country Club and then surviving a 3-for-2 playoff for the final spot. He posted one victory this past season in Hawaii and finished fourth individually at the NCAA Corvallis (Ore.) Regional. He was the runner-up in the Valspar Collegiate Invitational and finished third in the Maridoe Collegiate. Cowan, an Edmond, Okla., resident, has qualified for the last three U.S. Amateurs.

Eric Lee (No. 27)

The Oklahoma State standout and Fullerton, Calif., resident qualified for his first U.S. Open by posting 6-under 136 at Del Paso Country Club, in Sacramento, Calif. The rising senior helped the Cowboys win the 2025 NCAA title. Lee, the No. 27 player in the World Amateur Golf Ranking, won the 2025 NCAA Marana (Ariz.) Regional. He reached the semifinals of the 2025 U.S. Amateur at The Olympic Club and advanced to the Sweet 16 of the Western Amateur.

Mason Howell (No. 70)

The 18-year-old incoming University of Georgia freshman made an impressive run to the 2025 U.S. Amateur title at The Olympic Club last August, earning him a spot on the victorious USA Walker Cup Team. Howell qualified for the 2025 U.S. Open at Oakmont by carding a pair of 63s at Piedmont Driving Club in Atlanta. He was the stroke-play medalist at the 2025 U.S. Junior Amateur before losing in the Round of 64. Howell was named to U.S. National Junior Team at the outset of 2026 after being a member of Team Georgia in 2025. He and 2025 U.S. Junior Amateur champion Hamilton Coleman will be roommates this fall at the University of Georgia.

Hamilton Coleman (No. 213)

The native Georgian earned his first U.S. Open start with a 2-and-1 victory over Minh Nguyen, of Vietnam, in the 36-hole final of the 2025 U.S. Junior Amateur Championship held at Trinity Forest Golf Club, in Dallas, Texas. This came several months after he claimed the American Junior Golf Association's Junior Players Championship win at TPC Sawgrass. Already a member of the Georgia State Team as part of the U.S. National Development Program, Coleman was elevated to the U.S. National Junior Team at the start of 2026, joining fellow Georgian and 2025 U.S. Amateur champion Mason Howell, who will be his roommate this fall at the University of Georgia.

Seven of the top 27 players in the WAGR® as of June 14 are in the field.

YOUNGEST COMPETITOR

At 17 years old, Miles Russell is the youngest competitor in the championship. He will be 17 years, 7 months and 17 days old on the first day of the U.S. Open (June 18). The Florida State University commit earned his place in the championship through final qualifying on Golf's Longest Day, with fellow junior standout Charlie Woods serving as his caddie.

OLDEST COMPETITOR

At 54 years old, Padraig Harrington is the oldest competitor in the championship. He will be 54 years, 9 months and 18 days old on the first day of the U.S. Open. The reigning U.S. Senior Open champion is making his 18th start in the national championship after capturing his second senior major title last summer.

AVERAGE AGE OF COMPETITOR

The average age of a player in the field is 30.1 years old.

FIELD BREAKDOWN BY AGE

Aged 17-19: 6
Aged 20-24: 26
Aged 25-29: 45
Aged 30-34: 42
Aged 35-39: 27
Aged 40-44: 6

Tom Kim	6-21-02	24
Jake Peacock	6-20-03	23
Scottie Scheffler	6-21-96	30

THE U.S. OPEN COURSE

Shinnecock's first course, designed by Willie Davis in 1891, featured just 12 holes. Four years later, Willie Dunn added six new holes to complete the 18-hole layout. In 1916, Charles Blair Macdonald, with the help of Seth Raynor, modernized the course by rebuilding several signature holes. When plans for a new road running through several of Macdonald's holes south of the clubhouse were announced in 1927, the club purchased 108 acres of land to the north and east. This led to a full redesign of the course by William Flynn, completed in 1931. Flynn crafted a more strategic layout that took advantage of the site's natural features and created a trio of routing triangles that expose a variety of wind directions. Today, Shinnecock's setup remains true to Flynn's original design from 1931. This will be the first U.S. Open played at Shinnecock without modifications to that design.

- An invitation to the next five Masters Tournaments
- An invitation to the next five Open Championships, conducted by The R&A
- An invitation to the next five PGA Championships
- An invitation to the next five Players Championships
- Exempt status on the PGA Tour for five years
- Custody of U.S. Open Trophy for one year, Jack Nicklaus Medal and a replica trophy

QUALIFYING FOR THE OTHER MAJORS

The top 10 finishers (and ties) are exempt into the following year's U.S. Open. The top four finishers (and ties) are invited to the following year's Masters Tournament.

Title Defense

J.J. Spaun will look to defend his title and become the first player to win back-to-back U.S. Opens since Brooks Koepka in 2017 and 2018. Spaun recovered from a front-nine 40 by holing a 65-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole to punctuate a two-stroke victory over Robert MacIntyre at the historic Oakmont (Pa.) Country Club and claim his first major championship. With a 72-hole total of 1-under-par 279, Spaun was the only competitor to finish in red figures on what is one of the world's most challenging layouts.
